

ABSTRACT

The people a user is presumed to know or be associated with may be determined using a number of techniques. This information about people that the user knows is used in relation to the user's communications. For example access to a user's online presence may 5 be restricted based on the known people such that access to presence is provided only to those people that the user knows.

40195340.doc